I have had the pleasure of working with Nancy Teichgraf since she came on board with the Langley Advance since 1999. Her creative eye has made her an important asset to the paper. She played an integral part in developing our most recent overall design of the Advance, and in addition to strong day-to-day involvement in developing ad designs, as well as a wide array of special sections and projects, her artistic design work has helped us to field a number of regional and national awards over the years. Best of all, she has a positive attitude – and no inclination to hide it!

In providing graphic design work and production expertise on many of our large projects, Nancy fulfilled all of her obligations and more. With vast experience and a keen eye, she created and executed many complex, detail-oriented pieces in the Vancouver Courier, for projects that I oversee.

These include, but are not limited to: Stars of Vancouver (annual 28-page 'best of' feature); Your Vancouver Magazine (annual 48-page high-gloss mini-magazine); Centre Stage (tri-annual 8-page entertainment supplement), plus a host of regular and semi-annual features.

As a writer / editor I have worked with many designers over the past 13 years, and the qualities I most appreciate and require for getting the job done are: style and creativity, diligence, accuracy, top-notch computer skills, ability to change on a dime, not afraid to suggest improvements, and most of all - a love of their work.

A designer like Nancy who 'leaves it all on the table' and takes tremendous pride in their accomplishments - and the team's - always does the best job. It in no small part allows our papers and magazines to shine, on their own and vs. the competition.

As a co-worker, whether in the same office or remotely by phone/email, Nancy is kind, fun, interesting and positive thinking. I highly recommend Nancy.

I have had the pleasure of being on the receiving end of Nancy Teichgraf's graphic design work. She has played an integral role with the success of countless special features and the development of a new and successful automotive publication that I am personally responsible for. I owe much of the success to Nancy based on her creative contribution and exceptional graphic design work.

I've worked with graphic designers for the past 20 years during my tenure at an ad agency and in management positions at daily and community newspapers. I would place Nancy at the top of the creative design charts.

I'm sure this endorsement sounds almost too good to be true but it's not. Nancy is a consummate team player with an exceptional creative mind. She will be a valuable asset to any organization that is looking for someone that can work to deadlines, is extremely proactive, understands graphic design and the importance it plays, and never compromises on quality.

... based on her performance, Nancy has demonstrated good technical organizational skills. During her tenure with the Company, Nancy interacted well with co-workers, was reliable and showed good judgment. I am pleased to be able to provide this reference and I wish Nancy success in her future endeavours.
